

Greetings Buckskin Jim,

I would gladly like to give feedback on my classroom chair pockets! They are amazing!! There are a few teachers in my school who had chair pockets from other companies that needed repairing even before half of the school year was over. The chair pockets you made for my class still look brand new!!

They made it through the first year with only a paint stain here and there... no tarnishes due to manufacturing!! In fact, the manufacturing of these pockets is quite impressive. The reinforcements you placed where the pockets attach to the backing I am pretty sure is indestructible! I brought them home at the end of last year and washed them on gentle cycle with regular laundry detergent and Borax. I let them line dry, and then ironed them with spray starch. Absolutely no shrinkage!! They hooked onto the backs of the chairs for this year just as though they were brand new!

One thing I really like about them are the measurements! The pocket fits two plastic pencil boxes side by side perfectly! I love this because I have my students put markers on one box and crayons in the other. They use both, but often are not allowed to use markers for certain kinds of paper because it bleeds through. Having the ability to organize their supplies this way saves so much teaching time! Not only do the boxes fit in the pocket side by side, but there is still room for white boards, folders, and other items. That is just the main pocket I speak of... then there is the smaller pocket in front that can also hold headphones and other items the student may need. The kids love having their own supplies and their own little space for their things.

Jim, I would be happy in anyway what-so-ever to share my experience with your chair pockets. I think every teacher in the state of Montana needs to know about your work. I am pretty certain your chair pockets are the best that can be found in the entire United States! I am not just saying that because it sounds good... I truly believe it to be the case.

Thank you for providing a product to teachers that is extremely reasonably priced, but most importantly will last many years and a great investment to the classroom!

Mostly, thank you for caring enough to check back with me to see how they are. That in and of itself speaks volumes...

Thank you!!
